SEC Names Four To Advise McGill Placement Service

McDougall Heads Students' Committee For Employment

Student representation on the McGill Placement Service has taken shape with the formation of a Students' Advisory Committee composed of four students, Colin M. McDougall, director of the Service, announced last night following the first official meeting of the committee on Friday.

The committee, appointed by the Students' Executive Council, has been authorized by the Placement Board of the Service, a committee of faculty staff members.

To Advise Board
Besides providing student representation on the Service, Mr. McDougall pointed out, the committee is designed to advise the Director and the Placement Board of student opinion on matters affecting the McGill Placement Service.

"It will allow students individually, or as a body, to make comments or suggestions on Placement Service policy and procedure," he added.

The committee is also expected to act as a source of information on McGill Placement Service affairs to the student body and to promote the public relations of the Service.

Started Year Ago
Organized last year under the sponsorship of the University and the Graduates' Society, the Placement Service integrated the existing employment agencies on the campus: the Students' Employment Bureau and Univet Enterprises.

Its main objectives are to provide assistance in the placement of each year's graduating class and past graduates who desire a change of employment. It also assists undergraduates in finding summer or part-time employment.

Dawson Calls Meet to Fill A. & S. Posts

The Dawson College Arts and Science Executive has announced that an open meeting of all Dawson Members will be held on Tuesday, December 2nd, at 7 p.m. in Theatre One.

At this meeting nominations will be called from the floor for the posts of Secretary and Publicity Manager. The President, Paul Culen, will outline the plans for the coming year which include the formation of various committees and the discussion of Amendments to the Constitution.

An Educational Committee similar to the one in McGill, will be formed; the main purpose of the committee being the sponsoring of "Gen Nights". At the same time a Social Committee will be organized to sponsor Arts and Science social events.

This is the first time in the short history of Dawson that such a programme has been introduced, and the support and co-operation of all undergraduates of the Faculty is desired to make the plan a success.

Bovey Shield Today
The McGill contestant for the Bovey Shield will be chosen this afternoon at 5 o'clock in the new room of the McGill Union.

Freshmen and second year students attending the university for the first time are eligible. All contestants should present themselves before 5 o'clock and they may deliver their speeches in either French or English. Students may only speak for five minutes.

The topic "Is Canada's Immigration Policy Satisfactory?" may be taken either in the negative or in the affirmative by the contestants.

Liberalism Outlined by Prof. Watkins

By JEAN POULIOT

"The Philosophy of Liberalism" was the topic discussed by Professor Watkins of the Political Science Department last Friday in the New Room of the Union at 5 p.m. Professor Watkins, speaking as a guest of the Liberal Club, first cautioned the audience against confusing political parties with dogmas—liberalism is not confined to political parties, by that name, he said, but can be used to define "all the parties which have accepted the methods of liberalism... without a clear conception of its philosophical basis."

"ANARCHISTS" vs. "AUTHORITARIANS"

The advocates of the liberal conception, Prof. Watkins said, argue that liberalism "must use its legitimate authority in a persuasive function." This, he pointed out, is known as the "anarchist" theory of government, as opposed to the "authoritarian" one, which dictates that "a few 'privileged' leaders have the duty of imposing on the 'rabble' what is good for it."

"It is obvious that... neither can exist in reality," he continued, adding that "it is impossible to maintain order by absolute coercion if there is no willingness" on the part of the governed.

Professor Watkins then outlined the two principles corollary to that of government by consent: the principle of "freedom of activity for individuals and groups within a society," and that of the "right of revolution."

PEACE IN OUR TIME
The difficulty of our times, the Harvard graduate said, is that "it is hard to assume that peace is more important than justice. The cost of liberalism," Prof. Watkins added, "may have been so high that... it may no longer be acceptable." Since this involves pre-

McGill's Part In The War Is Subject Of New Book

By MIRIAM INSKY

McGill Students... Do you know about the important part that your university has played in both world wars? Well, even if you do and certainly if you don't, you will want to read the book "McGill University at War, 1914-18, 1939-45." This book was written by Mr. R. C. Fetherstonhaugh, LL.D., former custodian of the University war records.

A 450-page book bound attractively in red cloth, "McGill University at War" can be purchased at any of the leading Montreal bookstores, for $3, although a book of this type normally sells for $4.50 or $5. The price has been lowered as a tribute to the 8,000 McGill men and women who have served so gallantly in World War I and World War II. The low price of the book will enable students to obtain copies, who otherwise could not have done so. If you have run out of ideas for Christmas gifts for your friends and family, don't fret, as this very interesting book, at such a low cost, will prove to be a gift truly appreciated.

McGill's honor roll and award lists are something to be proud of. Her achievements in various research fields as well as her record at home and on the battlefield equal those of any other university. These accomplishments are all described in extensive detail in this book. Starting from the first formation of a University COTC, this book not only shows the part McGill has played in the two conflicts, but includes events that have made history.

"McGill University at War" has

Prom Tickets, Reservations Are Available

The Junior Prom Committee announced last night that table reservations will be taken today at the wicket in the Union from 9 o'clock onwards. Those students who cannot make reservations during the day may do so by phoning Jane Macintyre at WI. 3019.

The decorations for the Prom this year will not follow any distinct pattern or motif as has been the case in recent years but rather each mural will depict what is occurring in the area where it stands. For example the mural near the bandstand will deal with music while the one close to the canteen will deal with food.

The demand for tickets this year has been heavier than ever before and numerous students have been disappointed in their quest for tickets. To try and satisfy as many students as possible an additional block of 50 tickets is being put on sale tomorrow and these may be purchased for $5 each at the reservation wickets. This will be the last day of sale of tickets by the Prom Committee.

It was stated that the list of patrons for the Junior Prom will be published in tomorrow's McGill Daily. The Prom Committee is putting the finishing touches to plans for the formal which takes place on Friday night between 10 p.m. and 3 p.m. in the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gymnasium.

Johnny Holmes, long-time favorite in Montreal at large and McGill in particular, will bring his fourteen piece band to provide music for the dance.

Coed Debates To Be Held in RVC Tuesday

The Women's Debating Committee are offering two important features for women debaters this week. On Tuesday, December 2nd, at 6 p.m. in R.V.C., there will be a public speaking "try-out" in which any co-ed may take part. Each participant will make a five-minute speech for either the affirmative or the negative of the following resolution: "It is resolved that neither Latin nor Greek should be compulsory." A critic will be present to judge each co-ed's ability and offer constructive criticism.

On Thursday, December 4th, a tournament will be held at 6.30 p.m. Teams consisting of two coeds each will debate on "It is resolved that conference groups should replace the present system of lectures in the Arts Faculty." Teams may take either affirmative or negative and will meet at least two opposing teams. The place in which the tournament will be held will be announced later.

The object of the two contests is to enable the coeds to gain experience and practice in public speaking. All wishing to participate should affix their name on lists that will be found in the R.V.C., and the Women's Common Room of the Arts Building.

Charest Shines For U of M Beigler, Sanderson Effective

Rookie Dave Hackett's goal with less than six minutes to go in the game, pulled a fading McGill hockey team out of the depths and enabled them to edge a fighting University of Montreal squad 4-3 at the Forum Friday night before close to 7,000 thrilled spectators. Led by their great little ice-general, Andre Charest, who starred for the Quebec Aces in the Q.S.H.L. last year, the courageous Carabins battled back to erase a 3-0 deficit and tie the score in the third period, only to see Hackett of Boston, Mass., break the deadlock in the dying minutes of the tilt. The win put the McGill team in first place in the league standings.

Art Committee Plans Painting Exhibit Series

The Women's Union Art Committee has been reorganized this year after having been inactive for two years. The Committee is planning a series of exhibitions of painting and drawing this winter. Its aim is to increase student interest and appreciation of Canadian artists, and therefore the exhibitions will be those of prominent Canadian artists. The committee plans to invite the artists to give a lecture while their exhibitions are being held. These lectures and exhibitions will be open to all students on the campus.

The first exhibition opens this Thursday, December 4th, and will be held until December 18th. It will be held in the Common room of R.V.C., where all future activities of the Art Committee are to be held. The artist is Michelle Remillard, a student and instructor at the Art Association of Montreal. Miss Remillard has been studying art in Montreal for approximately five years under such well known artists as M. Pellon of the Beaux-Arts and Goodridge Roberts.

All students are cordially invited to attend the opening of the exhibition next Thursday from 4 to 6 o'clock, at which Miss Remillard herself will be present. Refreshments will be served.

CCF Club to Discuss P.C. Foreign Policy

The CCF CLUB will hold a meeting today. The main topic will be a discussion on the foreign policy centering around the proposals of the Progressive Conservative bill which is to be brought up at the next Model Parliament.

This Progressive Conservative Bill provides for the establishment of a Canadian replica of the Marshall Plan for the provision of reconstruction grants to Western Europe. The discussion today will be led by John T. Sangster, chairman of the CCF parliamentary. Mr. Sangster pointed out that party lines would probably be relaxed at the forthcoming parliament because of the large numbers of party members who might not be able to follow the lines laid down at the meeting.

The meeting will be held at 1:00 p.m. in the Union new room. Mr. John Oliver, secretary of the CCF Club announced the formation of a new study group on the "Basic Aims and Policy of the CCF." Mr. Oliver said that this club would be of interest to all those who were interested in the CCF Club and who had never had an opportunity of finding out the ideas of the party.

This study group is to meet weekly. The first meeting will be held today from 5 to 6 in the Board Room of the McGill Union. The group will hear papers by various leading authorities on CCF policy and the meeting will be open for discussion.

Newman Club Dance

Tickets will be on sale Tuesday through Club Keymen for the Newman Club "Can Dance" Saturday night at the Union Ballroom. Admission fee per person is .50 and one can of vegetables or fruit. The cans will be sent to the student group in Europe which the McGill Club is adopting. Anyone seeking admission Saturday without a can of food will be taxed an extra .25. The dance is "stag or drag", and Paul Beauregard's band will provide the music for dancing.

Carabin rosters were suppressed and McGill supporters were wild with excitement as the Redmen rolled up a three goal lead in the first half of the battle. However, this silence on the part of the U. of M. followers was suddenly transformed into mass bedlam when the "Therrien Terrors" roared back in the second and third periods.

Big Mike Fisher on the McGill back - line tallied twice for the Redmen while Jimmy Atkinson accounted for the other McGill goal. Flynn, Charest and Lalonde beat Gelineau in the Red cage, for the losers.

The Redmen seemed to tire as the game progressed, while their rivals gained momentum towards the end. Jack Gelineau was forced to execute some sterling saves as the Carabins swarmed about his net in the final session. Andre Charest missed a grand opportunity in the last 40 seconds when he blasted a shot wide after taking a pass unguarded in front of the net.

WIDE EDGE
The game started out with all the indications of becoming a rout. Mike Fisher scored on a shot from the blue-line after taking a pass from "Goose" Gosselin at 15:15 of the first period. Jimmy Atkinson scored three minutes later with a wicked drive, on a play with Jack Millar and Doug Heron. Incidentally, Millar played a steady game throughout. In the first session the locals outshot "Les Carabins" 13-4 and held a wide edge in the play.

Mike Fisher's second goal of the game came at 8:20 of the middle frame on a play with Cy Biegler and "Sandy" Sanderson, both of whom played fine games. At that point it looked as if the Clan Campbell had finally found itself, but the Carabins were far from beaten. They soon proved this, by netting the disc twice within a space of 30 seconds during the fourteenth minute of play with Gosselin in the penalty box. Flynn scored the first, combining with Yvan Dion and Lefebvre, and Charest the second, with Flynn and Dion assisting.

U. OF M. ROLLS
The third frame saw the Carabins really open the throttle and move into high gear, as they tied the count at 2-4 of the period. Gilles Lalonde doing the honors from Denis Lazure. From this point on the play was fast and furious and the crowd went wild as the Carabins attacked desperately in an effort to take the lead. However, Gelineau was equal to the test and it remained for "Yank" Hackett to clinch the verdict, when he pumped a shot past Lahaie after taking a pass from Doug Heron.

Top trio for the Redmen was the Hackett - Henry - Biegler line, while Gordie Gosselin played his usual heady game on the blue-line. The Regina boys, Sanderson and Fisher were effective, although the latter showed a tendency to get caught up the ice on Carabin forays. Sanderson showed a lot of drive on the forward line and figured largely in two of McGill's goals, although he received an assist on only one.

A total of 17 penalties were handed out by referees Mullins and Mallinson during the contest. All were minors.

TOUGH LUCK
Captain Cy Biegler was a constant threat, but was plagued by bad luck throughout. In the first

Dawson Dance Criticised

By BOB FERRY
JOE LEBEL

The annual holiday dance was the climax of Dawson social season last Friday evening. More than 1,100 students and guests crowded Dawson gymnasium for the affair. The girls, answering an invitation sent by the Students' Council to the Bell Telephone Company, the Robert Simpson Company, the Sun Life Building and R.V.C., arrived in special buses provided by the Council.

Although the dance was generally considered a success, many complaints were expressed by both Dawson students and the visiting girls. Foremost among these was the fact that duration of the dance was altogether too brief, considering the travelling time, to and from Montreal. Another criticism made by the visitors concerned the exceedingly poor conduct of more than several Dawson students. Further complaints of lesser importance were voiced regarding the check-room facilities and the comparatively small attendance of Dawsonites, the latter fact leaving many girls "partnerless." A number of the guests made it known that they had no desire to see Dawson again. This sentiment is not entirely new to Dawson.

The social committee, headed by George Mueller, managed with the help of student volunteers and the Dialectic Materialism getting such coverage in The Daily . . . Sadie Hawkins' Day ignored or forgotten by the co-eds. (For Shame!) . . . Watch for the student opinion poll which should appear in The Daily tomorrow. The title's a honey! (The Trot Poll—A Slow Gallop) . . . At the hockey game Friday, the scoreboard had an "M" for the University of Montreal, and a "G" for McGill. (Or was it for Gelineau, our teams great goal-keeper) . . . Talking about goal-keepers, its obvious why the U. of M. netman appears to skate a little slowly. That horseshoe of his must be heavy to tote around . . . Sudden Thought: Wonder what the SEC'll do about amending the quorum clause of their constitution (to reduce it) if they don't get a quorum out a week Wednesday?

THOUGHTS WHILE SHAVING. The court judgment, which declared Edmund Wilson's "Memoirs of Heate, County" to be obscene and levied a $1,000 fine has been upheld at Appeal. Publicity given the ruling will probably result in sufficient additional sales to net the author and publishers many times the fine in increased royalties . . . Maybe if there were a Senior Prom, then more Juniors could get tickets to their Formal. In spite of the strictness of the committee in selling the pasteboards many seniors are going and many Juniors who would like to can't get tickets.

McGILL PLACEMENT SERVICE

"The McGill Placement Service is the result of the conviction of faculty members and of graduates that such a service was needed not only by graduates and students, but by business, industry and the professions.

This statement, part of a release issued on the formation of the Placement Service last year, indicates the underlying reasons for the establishment of such a service.

There can be no denying, in these days of peak enrolments at the universities throughout the country, the necessity for employment aid for the many graduates who will be flooding the market next year and the years to follow.

And in these days of abnormal living costs, we are all conscious of the student veterans' plight: the problem which he must face in supplementing an allowance which was originally granted at a time when the cost-of-living was more than one-third below what it is today. Part-time employment is often his only solution.

These two problems, we feel, must be in the forefront as the McGill Placement Service sets out to accomplish its avowed objectives of assisting in the placement of graduates and students on either a full or part-time basis.

Organizationally, the Service has the wherewithal to achieve remarkable success in its field. With funds provided by the University; with the Graduates' Society to back up the external relations of the service; with an able director and assistant director plus a committee made up of faculty members—with all these advantages the Placement Service stands to render valuable service and aid to both graduates and undergraduates.

There was, however, one thing lacking: student representation.

This disadvantage has now been overcome with the establishment of a Students' Advisory Committee, made up of four students and the director of the Service as chairman.

Generally, the purpose of the committee is not merely to provide student representation, but to make comments and suggestions toward the more efficient operation of the Service from the student point of view.

This is a move which must be commended. No organization, we feel, dealing with student employment—a problem which affects students intimately—can afford to be without student opinion. It must have some gauge whereby to judge the efficiency of its operations among those who are most affected by these operations.

But this students' committee will hardly serve its purpose unless it is permitted access to expressions of opinion from the student body in general. For it to truly represent student opinion on the Service, the committee must be made aware of the feelings of the individual student as well as campus groups interested in the employment situation.

It is to be hoped, therefore, that students will avail themselves of the opportunity to exert a voice in the policy and program of the McGill Placement Service.—A.T.

DRAMA ON A SHOESTRING

This performance of Synge's poetic tragedy amply demonstrated that it is possible for a group operating on a limited budget under adverse technical conditions still to produce a play that is workmanlike, and, on the whole, fairly convincing. It is to be hoped that the Players' Club will continue its policy of bringing these productions to the students as well as affording those willing to take part in the work an opportunity to exercise their imaginations.

The Players' Club's main production will be the farce comedy George and Margaret by Gerald Savary, which will be presented at Moyse Hall on December 10 and 11. This play dealing with the life of a vaguely mad English family will be directed by Joan Jackson Dunbar, formerly with the English Department.

In the second term, we are informed that the Club plans to devote its entire activities to the Shoestring Theatre, and four one-act plays are tentatively planned. This programme may be revised to take care of the Inter Varsity Drama League competitions, contests for which may take place sometime in February.

We wish the Players' Club and the Shoestring Theatre the best of fortune for this season and seasons to come.

HENRY V . . . . .

Few are the films that can be compared with Olivier's production of Henry V. It is so large in scope that many of the important details are lost on first view but come into their true perspective when seen again and again. This is not the first Shakespearean play which has been filmed. "A Midsummer Night's Dream" and "Love's Labour's Lost" proved artistic as well as box-office failures. Then, what is it in Henry V that creates poetry on the screen?

It is William Walton's music that starts before the film and keeps it moving throughout, replacing Shakespearean language during the silent action shots of the battle scenes? Or is it the battle scenes at Agincourt, beginning with the advancing French, bannered and confident and awkward, shifting from a haughty walk to a full gallop only to be met by English arrows? Perhaps the portraiture of the French Court, colourfully painted in its fragility, yet as in the painting of a medieval landscape, each person is shown to be a separate shrine adorned. The same French camp, bragging and boasting in their tents on the night before the battle of Agincourt is contrasted with the tired English . . . both watching time grow.

If the technicolor is found to be anti-naturalistic, it is largely due to the entire anti-naturalistic conception of Henry V. Olivier has tried to preserve the concepts of Elizabethan man—that everything revolved around and for him. Here, in this film we see Man blown to a bubbled proportion. Here, he is shown as greater than Nature itself.

Olivier has tried to reconcile Shakespearean blank verse with screen realism. There are times when this reconciliation is not successfully co-ordinated. The text itself has been slightly changed. In

His Majesty's

Falstaff's death scene, we have speeches transported from Henry IV Part 2. But these changes can be overlooked; for the film retains much of the quality of Shakespeare's poetry . . . this alone remains the essence of Henry V.

Lawrence Olivier gives an excellent performance. His soliloquy at night in the glow of the camp-fire and his St. Crispin speech combine effectively with the final love scene to reveal his versatility. Robert Newton as Pistol and Esmond Knight as Fluellen are extremely well cast. There is much symbolism and humanity in this play. The camera creates its own poetry especially on the Irish landscape.

How successful is Olivier's attempt in stepping out of the Globe Theatre towards the fields of France, and then returning to the theatre, depends largely on the audience. Suspension of disbelief is quite difficult for the average film-attending audience. Shakespeare wanted his countrymen to know something of the greatness of England's past history. He attempted to show his fellow countrymen what a wonderful heritage was theirs. But he achieved his greatness because in painting England's past . . . he sketched humanity. The mixture of the poetry and prose of the language interwoven by music and uttered by Olivier in his St. Crispin speech is filled with power and intensity. The love scene was more than charming. It was timeless.

The technicolor was not a Hollywood technicolor. Throughout the film it helped to bring out the movements of the actors by playing down its various hues.

The film is being shown at His Majesty's for the entire week, with special rates for students. It remains one of the few films that a person can go to again and again without tiring, and discovering each time a little more of the greatness of Shakespeare.—A.N.L.

Mason Glowerless . . . Same old Tierney . . . Imperial

Secret of Stamboul, a better-forgotten episode in the careers of James Mason and Valerie Hobson, has come back to haunt them. I believe that the picture is what used to be known as a "Quota Quickie"—a show tossed together by some enterprising soul who wanted to take advantage of the market guaranteed by the 1927 Quota Act. The plot is threadbare, abounding in smuggled rifles, documents, plotted revolutions and hints of international significance. An unusual technique of storytelling is that it is retroactive, and characters out of the past keep wandering onto the scene at the right moment.

An interesting feature of the show is the movement and pantomime, which is straight out of the early silents. The photography is good, and was apparently done in Turkey or North Africa.

The Shanghai Gesture, which shares the bill, is far more satisfying. While there is nothing in it to suggest that the Hollywood interpretation of Shanghai is any more true to life than the Hollywood interpretation of America, there is a certain sumptuousness about it. Also there are some good portrayals, notably by Walter Huston and Ono Munson. The story leans heavily on coincidence. Gene Tierney's rapid descent from the wayward to the psychopathic is apparently designed to show that BLOOD WILL TELL. Victor Mature spends most of the picture being Victor Mature. A. P.

Love me, love my horse . . . . . Princess

Joe (Don Ameche) gives up his secure little accountant's job to live the way his heart dictates. This leads him to horse-racing, gambling and marriage. Joe buys the horse, marries a drugstore clerk (Catherine McLeod) and everything rings merry as marriage bells. With typical Hollywood originality the poor little colt, which looks like a leoparded mule, grows up into a ribbon conscious champion. Joe however is led into evil ways by his itching palm. Wife leaves him, he has a change of luck and does a disappearing act.

The plot of That's My Man comes to a goey end. Gallant Man (the horse) now a fugitive from a rest home, saves the day and gambols in with the Gold Cup, thus rescuing Joe from an accountant's fate.

The second feature is "Calendar Girl". M. B.

Royal Wedding . . . . . Desert Fury . . . . . Capitol

This week might be called technicolor week at the Capitol Theatre—the only part of the excellent program which is in black and white is the newsreel and that consists wholly of the Royal wedding and is therefore excused. "Desert Fury", the main feature, is the story of a beautiful young girl whose mother runs a gambling saloon with the technicolour name of the "Purple Sage", a gangster and his bodyguard and finally, just to round things out, a handsome young cop. The plot is surprisingly good and the technicolour is almost subtle—another surprise. Mary Astor as the mother and Burt Lancaster as the cop are the pick of the cast, but everyone turns a fairly satisfactory performance. The program is rounded out by a cartoon and a short featuring Peggy Lee, a lush blonde with a very pleasant voice.—K.S.T.

A Pleasant Life with Father . . . . . Loew's

"Life With Father" is a lively, nonsensical comedy which, while it may not give you any bellylaughs, will certainly keep you chuckling all the while you're seeing the picture.

Everyone in the cast seems to enjoy the parts and make the most of them. Irene Dunne as Winnie wears her air of innocent ignorance so credibly that one wonders if she is acting. Her scatterbraining is so convincing as to make you feel sorry for poor confused Mr. Day.

The rest of the players have varying degrees of success with their characterizations, with Mr. Powell running a poor last. The youngest of the Day children is a wonderful mugger and steals more scenes than a grown-up would dare to dream of.

The opulent sets are done justice by an overly rich Technicolor. The humor is, at times, too subtle for the audience, but on the whole the picture is just a lot of good, if expensive, fun.

The cartoon is a little on the mutty side. J. S.

Ludwig Lewisohn At Hillel Today

Ludwig Lewisohn, eminent writer and critic, will open the second series of Lecture-Forums, sponsored by the McGill Hillel House, today at 5 p.m. at Hillel. The overall topic of this series is "Factors in Jewish Adjustment to the Modern Scene." Mr. Lewisohn will highlight the observance of Jewish Book Week as well as speak on "Jewish Personality as Reflected in Current Literature."

Ludwig Lewisohn of Columbia University, is known on this continent and abroad as one of America's most distinguished novelists and critics. He has written some of the finest creations in contemporary literature. Among his distinguished works are "Upstream," "The Island Within," "The Case of Mr. Crump," and "Creative America."

Daily Contest

The Daily is again sponsoring its annual Christmas contest. This year it is open for both photographs and snaps as well as the usual short story entries. However, unlike last year, all entries must have a Christmas or winter tang. Prize money has also been increased from $5.00 to $10.00. This prize of $10.00 will be awarded to the winner in each section. In addition to this two honourable mentions will be given, one to the winner of the photographs and the other to the winner of the short stories.

The short story entries should not exceed 1,000 words. All contributions must be typed, double spaced and signed with the author's name and faculty. Anonymity will be respected if desired. The stories will be judged by a committee of editors: all undergraduate students of McGill may enter the contest except those who belong to The Daily staff.

The Christmas Daily is traditionally a Feature department publication. This is the third year that it has been sponsored. In the past two years the contest has been limited to stories and it is hoped that this year the wider field will encourage more students to enter.

The deadline for entries is Friday, December 12. All contributions should be addressed to the Features Editor and left with George in the Union Tuck Shop.

In the great unfathomable void There was one star, spreading its thin shine Alone

And in a universe of purity It was most perfect.

Why then will we have lost its beauty

If it shine its own as part of harmony

With clustered myriads of stars? Stop and behold them . . . again.

For he is the most blind, Who, star-seeking, sees a sky. B. W., B.A. I.

ORGONE RESEARCH

The Orgone Research Institute is desirous of forming a committee with a view to the establishment of a Montreal laboratory in the near future. This venture will be impossible if it is found that there are an inadequate number of qualified persons with an interest in this field of scientific research.

Students at McGill who would be interested in acting on the committee are requested to leave their names, together with a list of such qualifications as they feel they may possess at the Tuck Shop of the McGill Union labelled ORI. Good physical condition is essential, and it is desirable that applicants be acquainted with the works of Nietzsche, Freud, Wilhelm Reich, and some of the later workers in the field.

Toronto Varsity Edges McGill In Dominion Gymnastic Meet; Red Waterpoloists Lose 8-2

Gymnastics

By JACK GOLDWATER
The Sir Arthur Currie Gymnasium was the scene last Saturday night of the greatest gymnastics meet ever held in Canada with Toronto Varsity edging out McGill University 2408-2124 to cop individual team honors and the 'Bunny' Sabbath Trophy. This meet won the plaudits of the officials and well over a thousand spectators who were present. Great praise is due to Professor Em Orlick, Dawson College Athletic Director, who organized this tremendous event.

One of the features of the evening was the demonstration put on by the Swiss Gymnastic Club of Union City, N.J., winners of U.S. championships for the last 16 out of 21 years and featuring one of the greatest Olympic athletes of all times, Frank Cumsieky.

In the all-round championship top honors were won by H. Bee of University of Toronto, with Earl White of St. Catharines, Y.M.C.A., and Johnny Foster of McGill following in that order.

Except for White, McGill and Toronto won all first three places in all the events.

CAMILLEN CAME
Looking on with obvious enthusiasm was Colonel George Machum, President of the Amateur Athletics Union of Canada, who saw some very bright prospects for Canada's Olympic team. Other noted guests present were Montreal's robust and popular mayor, Camillien Houde, Dr. Joseph Kotly, Czechoslovakian Consul General, and Dean A. H. S. Gilson.

Detailed results of the meet are as follows:

Flying Rings: (1) John Foster, M; (2) Earl White, St. C.; (3) Jack King, M.

High Bar: (1) L. W. Humphrey, T; (2) J. Foster, M; (3) John Laxton.

Parallel Bars: (1) H. Bee, T; (2) E. White, St. C.; (3) Art Henderson, M.

Horse: (1) H. Bee, T; (2) J. Johnston, T; (3) L. W. Humphrey, T.

Tumbling: (1) E. White, St. C.; (2) J. Laxton, T; (3) H. Bee, T.

We Won...

Jr. Pucksters Down St. Paul

By ART FREEDMAN
McGill's entry in the Mount Royal Junior Hockey League registered its first win in four starts at the Forum freeze Saturday afternoon, before a crowd typical of junior hockey enthusiasts by defeating Cote St. Paul, last year's league champs, 7-2.

The St. Paul entry burned up the ice early in the first period, but before the end of the initial canto, the Red and White had found a method to the Leafs' madness, and managed to hold them to a single tally, with Gauthier, a rugged defenceman, doing the damage.

Red Hoopsters Defeat Aggies In Inter Game

By CY LEWIS

In a terrific, hard fought basketball game, McGill's dogtired and out-fought intermediate C.I.A.U. entry literally came up off the floor to take the MacDonald Aggies into camp by a score of 35-29. Trailing by 17-5 at the end of the first half, and behind by 13 points at one time during the second half, a weary Red team suddenly got hot and led by Leo Dunn who played a stellar game throughout, scored 30 points, coming from behind to cop the kudos, much to the bewilderment of the Aggie team. The 500 rabid Aggie fans saw a sure victory knocked from their grasp by a sustained McGill onslaught.

This was the second victory, in as many evenings, for Hugh Purdy's charges, who had vanquished the Loyola team 53-52 on Friday evening at Loyola, after two grueling overtime periods.

COLD START

Thus handicapped and arriving late in a somewhat frozen condition after the cold ride out, the Redmen took the floor without having had sufficient chance to warm up. The Aggies quickly went to work outplaying McGill by a wide margin, piling up 14 counters before McGill was able to reply.

After the rest period, the Redmen started off a fast clip hitting the hoop for a couple before the Aggies could get going. However, the Aggies soon found the range and began piling on the points again, but the tide seemed to turn in favor of McGill, when hustling Harry Dikofsky who had netted 10 points on Friday evening, but who up to this time had been unable to find the range, sunk a long one.

McGILL STARTS

For some reason or the other, the Redmen started to roll from this point, and led by Leo Dunn, brought themselves to within two points of the Aggies, with two and a half minutes left. Once again it was Hustling Harry to the fore with a basket at the right moment. A few seconds later Leo Dunn rustled the twine with a shot, to put McGill in the lead. With a minute and a half to go, the Redmen started to freeze the ball and one of the Aggies in his anxiety to get the spheroid, fouled Dunn as he was shooting. Leo sunk his first try, and missed the second, but recovering his own rebound, rustled the twine to put the game on ice.

Summerby Captures Squash Tournament

Johnny Summerby won the 2nd Squash Knock-out tournament of the year on Saturday afternoon, beating Ken Howard 21-20, in a very close match. Summerby reached the finals by previously defeating Bob Collier 21-18, while Howard gained the other final spot when Al Kendall had to withdraw half-way through their match with a strained tendon.

Water Polo

Toronto, Ont.—The McGill Senior Intercollegiate Waterpolo team broke a three-year stretch of untasted defeat in their league last Saturday, when they were beaten by a well-conditioned Toronto Varsity team to the tune of 8-2 at Hart House, Toronto. The game, which was one of the events on the agenda of an Athletics night, was characterized by a great deal of rough play and close checking, and by a lot of McGill fumbling and poor shooting, something which the McGillians have not been plagued by for several years. Most goals were scored as a result of errors at the goalmouth.

McGILLIANS NERVOUS

It was without a doubt the worst game that McGill has played in the last three years, and it is believed that this is due to the nervousness which prevailed from the very moment they set foot on terra firma in Toronto. In comparison with other McGill games, the Redmen seemed to be suffering from a certain tightness that set them off completely. It was strictly a case of bad nerves.

By virtue of this win, Toronto now has a stranglehold on the much coveted Herschorn Trophy awarded to the Intercollegiate Champs.

At the close of the first period, the score was 2-0 for Varsity, and it wasn't until the end of the second period that Cooper put McGill on the map with a well placed shot that the goaler hadn't a chance of stopping. The McGillians were stopped from scoring again until halfway through the fourth period, when MacDonald scored from a scramble in front of the Toronto nets.

High scorers for Toronto were Marshall and Samson with three apiece, with Fleet opening the scoring in the first period.

Both goalers were good, with Shubik sensational in the last half. (It may be interesting to note that the Varsity pool is deep at both ends.)

... We Lost

Y Juniors Top McGill Quintet

By ART BRONSTEIN

In a game that was fast and furious from beginning to end, Y.M.H.A. Juniors eked out a win over the McGill cagers, 38-32. The game started with both teams operating at full speed and the much lauded line of Baker, Garfinkle, and Godel living up to all pre-game expectations.

Immediately after the opening whistle McGill started the scoring parade with baskets by Godel and Garfinkle, in that order. Klein and Segal were towers of strength on the defence and were extremely effective in snaring the rebounds off the back-board. The teams left the floor at half-time with McGill leading 17-15.

SECOND HALF

Upon returning to the floor for the second half the "Y" boys certainly were fired with power. "Y" (Continued on Page 4.)

Softball Playoff Game Tonight; Floor Hockeyists Tie for First

SOFTBALL
Tonight the intra-mural softball playoffs continue when Eng. 2 meet Arts and Science 3 and 4, at 5:15 p.m. in the Gym. Arts and Science 3 and 4 are the defending champs and this is a crucial game, as a win for the Eng. 2 team will assure them this year's championship. Led by McKissock, Lewis and Westbrook, the Arts and Science nine are still favoured to win and retain the laurels they won last year from the Phys. Eds. The Engineers, with Morris, Ballon and Aber leading the way have terrific batting power and appear ready to give the champs their hardest fight to date.

FLOOR HOCKEY
In a close checking game, the Virginians defeated the Combines 4-3 last Friday, to tie the Plumbers and Combines for third place in the McGill Floor Hockey League, two points behind the leaders. Commercial, by virtue of their win by default over Phys Eds climbed into a first place tie with the Alkies. Four games are to be played this week to close out the regular schedule with the playoffs starting next week. Tonight, Stars meet the Virginians at 6:15 on the main floor.

AROUND THE CAMPUS

With the Observer . . .

First we have news for the Veterans on the campus. A VETS "DO" will be held on Thursday, December 4, from 5 to 8 p.m., in the COTC Mess of Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gym. All student vets are cordially invited "stag or drag". Here is an announcement from the DAWSON ARTS AND SCIENCE UNDERGRADUATE SOCIETY of an open meeting Tuesday at 7 p.m. in Theatre one. A C.C.F. CLUB STUDY GROUP is holding its first meeting of the year in the Boardroom of the Union at 5 p.m. today. This group is designed to acquaint newer and prospective members of the club with the aims and policies of the C.C.F. party. Today's meeting will be led by Jon Wolfe, president of the club. The INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB executive will meet today at 1 p.m. in a corner of the Union ballroom. Do the members of the executive know which corner?

The WRITERS' CLUB meets on Tuesday, 8 p.m. in the Player's Club Room. Criticism of manuscripts will take place, so all members are reminded to bring down stories. Also arrangements for the next guest speaker will be discussed. The MCGILL CHESS CLUB seems to have serious business on hand at 8 o'clock tonight. They are having a business meeting with election of officers and general business for the coming year on the agenda. All members are asked to turn out so that the official organization of the club may be effected.

frame Cy missed an open net, and a minute later he blasted one of his bullets off the goal post.

Andre Charest was easily the outstanding performer for "Les Carabins", while Flynn, Dion and Laperriere showed to advantage. The U. of M. "L" line of Lefebvre, Lazure and Lalonde played in aggressive fashion all evening.

The Redmen were outshot in the second session 11-10, and were badly outplayed in the final frame, as the losers pelted 10 shots at Jack Gelineau, with the home team taking only four at Denis Lahaie, keeper of the Carabin cage.

Despite their win, the Redmen did not put on an impressive performance. The team has yet to live up to its advance notices, but it is expected that they will round into form in a short time. They had better hurry up, with Varsity right around the corner. In fact the McGillians travel to Toronto next Friday night. They are last year's champs, the Torontonians are, and the Redmen will have to be on their toes to take them, come next Friday.

diction, it is not known yet whether this may happen.

Professor Watkins drew wide applause as he concluded by saying that whatever may happen, "liberalism is a fighting, revolutionary tradition, and as long as that spirit survives in individuals, there will be a trace of liberalism left in modern society, whatever political parties may call themselves."

Complaint Bureau
Proposed for U.M.

(By Canadian University Press)

Montreal, Nov. 29.—In last week's "Quartier Latin", the campus newspaper, "on the rights and duties of professors vis-a-vis their students". The formation of the committee was then suggested to assist the Deans of the Faculties, who were thought uniformed of the inaptitudes of some of their subordinates.

The article mentioned maintains that failure to remedy the problem fully has been due to the fact that students have been unable to complain without exposure to personal disadvantages. Martin Whelan, the writer, states: "If the University heedlessly fails in its essential task—as it is the case when poor or bad professors are inflicted upon students—I believe that the students have the right to have their criticisms heard and they should be able to do so without jeopardy to their own careers as students."

Cartier of the Leafs scored the other goal for the St. Paul aggregation early in the second period. The Red and White puckmen showed their best hockey of the season at the Atwater-St. Kay ice palace on Saturday. Perhaps Dave Campbell's presence at the game inspired them to victory! Maybe the desire to show their gratitude to Wilf put a spark into their skates! Whatever it was, it worked.
